

A map of the United States with state boundaries outlined in thin white lines. The map is divided into six large regions, each outlined with a thick black border and filled with a solid color. From west to east, the regions are: West (blue), Mountain West (green), Central (blue), South (red), Southeast (orange), and Northeast (yellow).

